Part I (Introduction through Chapter 2) Discussion 1

Available after Thursday, November 1, 2018 12:00 AM MDT.

Please respond to at least one prompt per discussion. When you respond, please include specific references to your discipline, including examples from your own research or images if you feel inspired. When you reference the text, please quote it and/or copy the excerpt you reference into the post to help us grade your response effortlessly.

Prompt 1: Elaboration - Page 5:

"In a cartoon by the Far Side cartoonist Gary Larson, a bug-eyed scientist says, "Mr. Osborne, can I be excused? My brain is full!" If you're just repeating what you've heard, it's true, you quickly hit the limit of what you can keep in your head. In practice, there's no known limit to how much you can learn. Elaboration is the process of giving new material meaning by expressing it in your own words and connecting it with what you already know. The more you can explain about the way your new learning relates to your prior knowledge, the stronger your grasp of the new learning will be, and the more connections you create that will help you remember it later."
